you it, you ever went by the door even.

Second Ladr-Well, so we did, but I couldn't help it. I read Macy's advertisement last week aloud at the breakfast table, and there were six other ladies who had resoived never to go there again, who heard me announce my resolution to return to Macy's. Inever missed anything so much in my life. All the little choice articles that I had been accustomed to get there I was completely out of, and I could not find them elsewhere, except at extravagant prices, and many of them not at all. Finding that I was determined to go, four of them loaded me down with commissions for themselves, and I judged from the amount and variety of those commissions that they had suffered as much as I had by staying away. Well, I went to Macy's Strange to say, the store stood in the very same spot that it did before. It was the same pleasant store, brightened up with a fresh coat of paint, and retitled for the coming season; the same pleasant faces behind the counter that I have seen there so often, and I felt at home in a minute.

First Lady-Well, is it true that he sold a splendid Sa Ribbon at Soc. a yard, and a fine Jaconet at Icc. a yard, a Ladies' Might Dresses at Soc. ?
